Creative Brush A dynamic brush similar to the one offered in the Canvas. Adobe calls it the Creative Brush because it uses the entire image to paint the effect. It's useful for painting with light in tones from gray to blue to green to the full palette of colors, gradients, and textures. The brushes use the entire image, so you get the best paint job with the least amount of effort. Dodge and Burn These two tools blend an image with its background so that the subject takes on a solid color. The settings for these tools are: light/dark, opacity, light/dark mix, and brush size. This is useful for photographers to blend in the background without destroying the subject. You can also use them to create a vignette, or a low-key image. Analogous and Monochromatic The Analogous and Monochromatic tools are similar. Use them to make your colors brighter, darker, or more vivid. This is useful for bringing out the colors in an image. Erode, Displace, and Dither These three tools use noise to create new image layers. Erode shrinks and increases pixels, Displace uses texture or coloring to make an image layer different than its background, and Dither uses dots or lines to create a different effect. These are good for adding edges, texture, or image details. Gradient Gradient is a tool to create a rainbow effect. You can control the colors, the start and end points, the angle, and the opacity. It can be used to change the color tones in an image from a solid color to a rain bow pattern. I used this technique of combining using many little bits of images of different people to make a portrait of a person. I based the entire composition around the subject. I used the same color eyes, hair, and the same colour clothes. I let the people who were not really 'sexy' look more 'human'. I'm very proud of this picture because you can tell it's a composite photo. The base photo was taken at a park I went to when I was a kid. My mom was really sick at the time, so I never took many pictures of her. I used the park for other parts of the composition, and then I didn't like the facial details so I did the portrait. I painted the eyes, and I painted the face black, then I put the person in a news studio.

that's what i'm thinking. "Larry W. Bass" on 02/18/2000 10:47:43 AM To: Eric.Bass@enron.com cc: KATHY BASS , jbyers@byersgrace.com, Eric Bass Subject: Re: Re:Re: I am going with the per person. I am going to do that anyway to even it out. So, that is the one we will do. - Re:.doc9] Although no evidence was adduced to show that the solicitation sales involved in the instant case were separate and distinct transactions, the jury was instructed that: "A new and separate contract is not formed from the execution of the original contract of sale when the original contract is not fully performed because of a subsequent change in title. However, a new and independent contract is formed when the performance of the subsequent purchaser is not dependent upon the purchaser's continuation of the original contract." [10] We take judicial notice of the fact that the defendant's assets were sold pursuant to court order. (People v. Superior Court, 3 Cal. App.3d 434, 437 [83 Cal. Rptr. 725].) The court order provided that the net proceeds from sale of assets not involved in the charge at bar were to be paid as follows: "The proceeds of sale will be distributed in the order of priorities as follows: (1) To the Clerk of the Superior Court of Los Angeles County for purposes of satisfaction of the unpaid judgment (remaining as of February 23, 1972); (2) To the city and county of San Francisco for general purposes; (3) To the State of California for State purposes; (4) To the clerk of the municipal court of Santa Monica, California, for purposes of satisfying the judgment pending therein; (5) To the State of California for purposes of criminal investigation, prosecution, and contempt. [Italics added.]" [11] The defendant was convicted of another offense committed in that city at approximately the same time as the instant offense. [12] When an officer is engaged in an investigation of a felony under section 2600 of the Penal Code he need not secure a warrant where he has

System Requirements:

As the "in-between" machine, you can use it as a decent pick-up and drop-off but if you want to get great results (like the great performance in other modes) you will need to go into Normal mode, and then even in Higher or Highest mode. Even in Lowest mode, there is still a bit of lag, and in Best mode you will need to deal with not being able to see what is going on (however, the lag should make things easy to compensate for, at least). If you want to go the highest
